Covid-19 has challenged the delivery of professional programmes across the college but we have developed an effective approach to your programme of study, blending face-to-face and online teaching. Our experience has shown that this new method of teaching opens new learning opportunities for all, enabling you to develop graduate skills such as time management, workload prioritisation and effective research skills.

This academic year you will have an induction as part of your welcome to the college, this will allow you to get to know your peers and the staff. This year some of the experience will be delivered online using Microsoft Teams but there will be a chance to meet up with fellow students and teaching staff. We will ensure that we will maintain your health and safety through meeting social distancing guidelines.

We will be taking a hybrid approach to your learning where we will blend learning on campus with online learning and assessment resources. In classrooms for small group teaching and online for some lectures, interactive activities and discussion groups. You will have access to all the support and guidance you need both on and off campus. Our priority is to offer a supportive and safe learning environment that enables all learners to progress successfully with their studies.
